Street Fighter V: Champion Edition Summoners War has joined forces with Street Fighter V: Champion Edition (hereinafter referred to as Street Fighter V). Street Fighter V is the latest version of the Street Fighter series. As many of you are aware, Street Fighter is one of the main Capcom game titles with a huge fan experience around the world. Street Fighter, a series of fighting video games, has been releasing various series over the years with unique characters and is still loved by players in eSports as well. Although both games have different genres, they certainly have something in common – love and support from players around the world in their fields for a long time! We wanted to interpret Street Fighter V in our own way and introduce it in Summoners War. In particular, we wanted to express the attractive elements of Street Fighter V characters with different characteristics, so that they fit well into Summoners War. (Street Fighter V Collaboration Monsters In Summoners War, will add five characters: RYU, KEN, M. BISON, CHUN-LI and DHALSIM) among the 40 characters that appear in Street Fighter V as collaboration monsters. These five characters will use their own name and no unboothed form will be available. So far, you may be wondering what skills they will have. Take a look at the RYU (Wind), KEN (Fire), M. BISON (Dark), CHUN-LI (Water) and DHALSIM (Wind) skill table below. Have you noticed known skill names? RYU's Hadoken and M. BISON's Psycho Crusher were reborn in our game. In this note, we only revealed the skills of a few attributes. For other attributes and skills, check them out in-game after the update. (Schedule of cooperation and how to acquire monsters) Cooperation schedule Cooperation will take place for 2 months (September - October), and a detailed date will be informed in a separate notice. During this time, monster collaborations can be obtained from the summons. Also note that collaboration monsters will no longer be summoned at the end of the collaboration period. However, recalled collaboration monsters can be used permanently. (How to summon co-op monsters) Monsters can be summoned from existing summoning methods (Mystical Summoning, Mystical Scrolls, Mystical Guild Scrolls, Attribute Scrolls, L&D Scrolls, Legendary Scrolls, Legendary Attribute Scrolls, and Transcendence Scrolls) with a fixed chance. In addition, Street Fighter V Scroll, which evokes only monsters of cooperation can be acquired through various events that will take place when the collaboration is updated. (What is Street Fighter V Scroll?) It is a scroll that evokes only monster collaborations. Monsters collaborations of all attributes (water / Fire / Wind / Light / Dark) can be decent. While we were preparing cooperation, we had one big problem - that users would not be able to get monsters of cooperation after the end of the cooperation period. One of the features of War Summoners is that users can play games with different strategies and combinations using multiple monsters. Due to the nature of the collaboration event, related monsters cannot be acquired after the event ends. As a result, we wondered if this would affect our game balance or the strategic side. In addition, users who have not had the opportunity to play the game during this period (new users or current users who could not meet the time to play) may feel deprived of having these collaborative monsters. As mentioned earlier, cooperation is foreseen for a limited period of time and it has been difficult to resolve this issue in principle. After many discussions, we came up with our original monsters that can replace monster collaborations. (Original Summoner War Monsters) Please first look at the picture. These are the original summoner war monsters that will replace the collaboration monsters. These original monsters have different appearance and/or visual effects skills than collaborative monsters, but will have the same stats and abilities. Original monsters can be used as power supplies for collaborative monsters to level up skills, and collaborative monsters can also be used as power-up materials for original monsters. The original monsters will be available in-game at the end of the co-op period (November). We'll let you know more details about this update. Finally, we would like to mention some other information that we would like to discuss in today's note. (Additional information) Collaboration monsters will be temporarily restricted in 2020. Since collaboration monsters, which can be purchased in a limited time, are a special case, we would like to limit the use of collaborative monsters until the official release of the original monsters. The original monsters are expected to be officially serviced in November 2020, and the use of the original monsters will also be limited to the end of season 15 of the World Arena as the same as the collaboration monsters. In addition, for the same reason, the use of monsters will be limited in SWC2020. Instead, collaboration monsters and original monsters can be used in all other content except world arena. (Original monsters will be updated to the Chinese server when the collaboration monster is updated. We wanted to introduce the monsters of cooperation to the summoners of all servers, but due to internal circumstances, the update of the cooperation available in the excluding the China server. For this reason, the original monsters will be available on the Chinese server after the release of the collaboration update. All collaboration content and events will be available in the same contexts, except that collaboration monsters will be changed to original monsters. Please have a nice understanding. That's all we've prepared for today! We've worked this collaboration update, so stay tuned. The content discussed in today's note will be available through the next update, and the various events will also be available together. (The developer's note is designed to help you understand upcoming updates in advance. As development and testing are still ongoing, please understand that the actual update may differ from the update we made available in the developer note.) (Latest information) We believe that many of you are curious about the automatic combat system. Our team is currently developing a system to be included in the first September update. Please be patient and understand as our team is constantly discussing and preparing the system to make it reasonable and effective. We believe that the next theme of the developer's note will be about the auto battle system. We'll be back with more exciting content!
